

To Study the Practical Aspect of Mobile Technology Services Provided Through Library and Information Network Among Education Faculty Primary and Secondary School Teachers W.R.T. Pandemic Situation of Society

Asha R. Ingale<sup>1*</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Abhyapak Mahavidyalay Dhankawadi, Pune, Maharashtra, India.

*Iashaug1@gmail.com

Abstract

This paper focuses on the descriptive analysis of knowledge and awareness about the fruitful use of the mobile technology services provided through Library and Information network among Education faculty Primary and Secondary teachers. There are many different network systems devoted to the varied disciplines. The benefits of mobile technology services provided through Library and Information network, which includes preparation of retrospective conversion, provision of bibliographies, optimum use of resources including rare collections, cooperative acquisition of documents, resource sharing, time-saving, minimizing the cost of the library services. It was a curiosity to know the awareness about the fruitful use of the mobile technology services provided through Library and Information network among Education faculty Primary and Secondary schoolteachers. The survey will be carried out in Pune, Maharashtra, India. On a sample of 50. Education faculty Primary and Secondary teachers The knowledge and awareness about mobile technology services provided through Library and Information network will be assessed with the help of a questionnaire developed by the author itself.

Keywords: Library and Information network, Mobile technology, School Teacher, Pandemic situation